Knowing how to connect the businesses in your community with the right resources could mean the difference between adding jobs or adding shutters. Coordinating resources at both the state and local levels is becoming an increasingly important role for economic development professionals.

The services provided by the Division are designed to include and complement local efforts, providing business owners and aspiring entrepreneurs the full array of expertise and information they need for improved performance and successful starts.

Contact us to learn how we can be – Working Together to Support Business Growth!
Wisconsin Small Business Development Center (SBDC) Network

As a nationally accredited network for business support, Wisconsin SBDCs leverage statewide resources for the benefit of local companies at any stage, size or age. Partner with your area SBDC for a boost in your local business success metrics for jobs, business starts and expansions. www.wisconsinsbdc.org

---

Center for Technology Commercialization (CTC)

The Center for Technology Commercialization works with innovators, tech entrepreneurs and researchers to bring new ideas to the market by guiding the process of commercialization. A complete suite of wrap-around services maximizes the likelihood of funding and business advancement. www.wisconsinsbir.org

---

Center for Business Intelligence (CBI)

The Center for Business Intelligence (CBI) converts the power of data, research and technology into decision-making tools for business owners. Specialists in market research, business strategy, digital media and GIS work with second-stage companies to identify and pursue growth or improvement opportunities. www.wisconsincbi.org

---

Food Finance Institute (FFI)

The Food Finance Institute is a collaborative network of food entrepreneurs, finance expertise and investment resources focused on Wisconsin’s food sector, which faces an increased demand for local, healthy options. Economic developers that refer food-related entrepreneurs and advisers to the FFI can expect to reap local benefits that sophisticated financial and technical assistance can provide. www.wisconsinffi.org

---

Business Dynamics Research Consortium (BDRC)

The Business Dynamics Research Consortium leverages multiple big-data resources to track the performance and growth factors for more than 144 million businesses from across the US. This comprehensive and accessible databank is a tool for local economic developers in developing sound, market-actuated economic development policy. www.youreconomy.org

---

UW-Extension Business & Entrepreneurship

432 N. Lake St., Room 423
Madison, WI 53706
608-263-7794
business.uwex.edu